Consideration of request from the Indiana State Museum and Historic Sites for approval of deaccession of items from the collection

The Indiana State Museum and Historic Sites, as an active collecting institution, is constantly improving its collection and it is occasionally necessary to remove inappropriate items from the collection. Deaccessioning, the process of permanently removing objects from the collections is how this is accomplished. Objects under consideration must meet at least one of these stringent criteria: lack of provenance, lack physical integrity, are duplicate, fails to meet collection criteria or are otherwise inappropriate for the collection in order to be considered for deaccession. Items which are appropriate for other collections are first offered to other institutions within Indiana; the remainder of materials is sold at public auction with the proceeds being returned to the Artifact Acquisition Fund that is solely dedicated to building and improve the museum's collection.

The Collections Review Committee must approve of approve of all proposed deaccessions before garnering approval from both the Indiana State Museum Board of Trustees and the Natural Resources Commission of the State of Indiana. This fall 2009, approval by the ISM Board of Trustees was not possible as a meeting quorum was not met and a vote on the deaccession could not take place. As it is unknown when a quorum will be met, it was determined by the Vice President of Programs and the Interim Executive Director to go ahead and get NRC approval in order to continue with scheduled business and work to avoid back logging the Collections Management and Curatorial sections.
