INDIANAPOLIS - Democrat Jill Long Thompson became the first in her party to meet with the press on Tuesday and delve into a number of issues in the Indiana General Assembly, economic development and the Kernan-Shepard reforms. Here is much of the interview conducted at the Westin Hotel:

Matt Tully, Indianapolis Star: Do you favor raising sales or income taxes to solve the property tax problem?
Thompson: I think too often the discussion is you can take it over here and put it over here. You take it from property taxes to sales taxes and income taxes. I think those are the wrong questions. The right question is what

WASHINGTON - The week before he announced he would challenge President Lyndon Johnson for the Democratic nomination, Senator Robert Kennedy traveled to Delano, California, where he appeared at a farm workers rally for Caesar Chavez. Chavez had been fasting for weeks trying to win recognition of his union The United Farm Workers, whose members and families were frequently being beaten up by agents of the growers. Chavez invited Kennedy to break the fast and share communion with him at a Mass of Thanksgiving, after which Kennedy spoke to the large rally of farm workers. An aide translated from Ken-
