NICCL

The Northern Indiana Computer Consortium for Libraries has scheduled its next roundtable meeting on Friday, July 1. The roundtable will be hosted, in-person, at the Peabody Public Library from 10 a.m.-12 p.m.

NICCL is an organization composed of member libraries that meet quarterly for technology-based training and networking. Attendees are encouraged to share technology endeavors from their own libraries, as well as what they've seen in other libraries. The roundtable also offers an opportunity for attendees to ask technology-related questions to those in the group.

Attendees do not need to be members of NICCL, nor do they need to be on staff as a member of their library's IT department.

Please send an RSVP to Rich Weiland of the Adams Public Library System, as lunch will be provided. The Peabody Public Library is located at 1160 E. SR 205 in Columbia City.

The primary mission of NICCL is to join together with other libraries to explore new emerging technologies, seek out best technology practices, obtain technology training, see vendor demonstrations of new technology or services and to negotiate pricing of technology hardware and software purchases and technology support services, all for the benefit of the communities that it serves. The U.S. Census Bureau's Age Search Service

In April, the U.S. Census Bureau released previously confidential records from the 1950 census to the delight of genealogists around the world. By federal law, the records that hold any identifying information are kept for 72 years and only released every 10 years after the decennial census. However, there is a way to gain access to census records that remain confidential.

The Census Bureau provides its Age Search Service to the public for census years 1910 through 2010. There is a $65 fee and an additional fee of $10 to search for more information. Researchers can get access to the forms required to use the service here, as well as instructions on who can apply. Use this tutorial to learn more about the process.

"What's Up Wednesday: NetGalley for Libraries: Live Demo and Overview" webinar scheduled

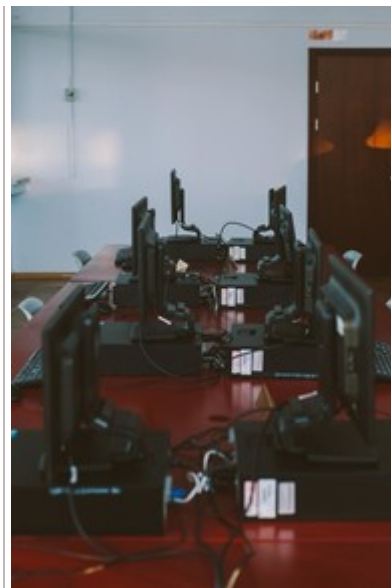

As part of the Indiana State Library's What's up Wednesday series, "NetGalley for Libraries: Live Demo and Overview" will be presented on Wednesday, June 29, from 10-11 a.m.

NetGalley is a free website for librarians to request and download digital review copies and audiobooks, while connecting with publishers and staying up to date with upcoming releases. The service is quick, efficient, secure and always free for library staff. Learn how to get started (e.g., registration, filling in a profile and requesting a first book or audiobook), helpful features, tools and ways NetGalley can specifically help librarians with collection development and readers' advisory.

Presenters will be Tarah Theoret, senior director of community experience at NetGalley, and Hallie Fields, social media assistant manager at NetGalley.

The webinar is eligible for one LEU for Indiana library staff and will be available to download at the end of the webinar. Click here for more info and click here to register.

The Indiana State Library will make all reasonable modifications

The Indiana SirsiDynix User Group's annual conference will take place on Thursday, Aug. 11 at the Clark Pleasant Branch of the Johnson County Public Library in Whiteland.

Presentation proposals are now being accepted for the conference. Presentations are being sought in relation to the use of any of the SirsiDynix product lines, such as BLUEcloud Cataloging, MobileCirc, Symphony or Horizon. The INSIRSI officers encourage proposals associated with any aspect of using these products, including those related to public services, library instruction, technical services and systems.

Presentations should last approximately 45 minutes. Chosen presenters must agree to provide INSIRSI copies of their presentations for posting on their respective websites. Questions may be directed to the INSIRSI officers. The deadline to submit a proposal is June 20 and notification regarding acceptance of proposals will take place by July 8.

Membership in the Indiana SirsiDynix Users Group is open to any institution in Indiana that uses SirsiDynix products. The current INSIRSI officers are Kendra Hummel, chair, of the Tipton County
