

Fall Creek Gorge Nature Preserve

County: Warren Size: 37 acres
Ownership: The Nature Conservancy

Location and Access

Parking and trail. From Attica, in Fountain County, take US 41 about 4 miles west to a road that veers to the right (north). Go north on this road 1.5 miles to a small parking lot on the left side of the road. The trail begins here.

Description: The gorge is a narrow sandstone canyon containing many large and small potholes in the bedrock streambed. These potholes have been created over time by the fast moving water of Fall Creek as it swirls through the gorge. The water flowing through the gorge is of extremely high quality as is indicated by its “exceptional use” designation by the State Board of Health. Rare and unusual species which can be found in the preserve include snow trillium, grass-of-parnassus, white pine, and a native bush honeysuckle.

Further Information:

The Nature Conservancy, Efrogmson Conservation Center, 620 E. Ohio St, Indianapolis, IN 46202.
(317) 951-8818.

Division of Nature Preserves Central Regional Ecologist, Andrew Reuter: AReuter@dnr.IN.gov