- Proposal identifies content area, licensure level and delivery model of the program.
- Program is innovative and designed to meet needs of 21st century candidates for this content area. Program may include promising "out of the box" approaches to teacher preparation.

The Certificate in Teaching English Learners through American College of Education (ACE) provides an "addition option" for currently licensed teachers in the state of Indiana who are already in the field with pedagogical experience. Additionally, the online program is designed to meet the needs of 21st century candidates seeking to effectively serve growing English Learner populations in the state of Indiana and across the nation. ACE relies heavily on evidence-based research to provide an affordable, effective online delivery system designed to prepare teachers of English Learners to use research-based strategies to effectively improve achievement and promote higher levels of postsecondary college and career readiness for these students.

The courses in this certificate are also part of two degree programs and one non-licensure certificate program should students choose to continue their education. The Certificate in Teaching English Learners was designed specifically to meet the Indiana REPA standards and provide students several pathways to a master's degree.

1.2 NEEDS ASSESSMENT DATA

- Data clearly identifies need for licensure program and has established LEA relations or defined state needs in order to ensure local and/or state needs will be fulfilled.

More school districts and educational settings are requiring teachers to have an endorsement or a degree in working with ELs; this program, therefore, is designed to prepare students interested in earning those credentials to meet this need within their school districts. The program focuses on theories of second language acquisition, methods of teaching, and leadership and communication skills. An American College of Education graduate with a Master of Education in Teaching English Learners may work as a teacher and/or teacher leader (program coordinator, lead teacher, program specialist) in a school or school system. The ultimate goal of the Teaching English Learners certificate is to promote diversity, imagination, and innovation with instructional planning and to provide a high-quality experience that effectively prepares professional educators to meet pressing social needs.

According to the United States Census Bureau (2013), the net international migration (NIM) reported 981,100 NIM for those of Hispanic origin and 848,000 for non-Hispanic origin during the decade of 2000-2010. "International migration of the foreign born represents the largest subcomponent of NIM, accounting for over 90 percent of the total" and representing a wide range of languages (U.S. Census Bureau, 2013, p. 14). During 2009, it was estimated over 40 different major languages were spoken at home (U.S. Census Bureau, 2009, Survey B16001). For children between the ages of 5 and 17, it was estimated 21.1% spoke a different language at home than they did at school (U.S. Census Bureau, 2009, Survey B16003). This information demonstrates the growing need for teachers to be prepared to teach English Learners. The percentage of public school students in the United States who were English Learners (ELs) was higher in 2012-2013 (9.2%) than in 2002-2003 (8.7%), and in 2011–12 (9.1%). Ten percent of students across the nation struggle with the English language, and only 1% of teachers are qualified to teach them. During 2012-2013, 5% of Indiana public school students were EL, up from 4.3% in 2002-2003, approaching the U.S. average of 9.2%. The number of public school students participating in programs for ELs in Indiana rose from 42,560 in 2002-2003 to 50,750 during 2012-2013.

Since 2006, two-thirds of Indiana schools have seen an increase in students learning English as a new language, and the number of English learners attending Marion County schools has more than tripled to nearly 13,000 since 2001. Additionally, of the 25 Indiana schools with the biggest jumps in the percentage of students learning English as a new language, 13 of them have seen their A-to-F grades either drop or stagnate.

After successfully completing the certificate, American College of Education students will be prepared to eliminate achievement gaps among diverse populations of students, promote higher levels of student performance and achievement in accordance with both state and federal accountability standards, and ensure higher levels of postsecondary college and career readiness for EL populations.

- Include a table that highlights in which specific courses program candidates are instructed and assessed on the following: assessment, use of technology to impact P-12 learning, cultural competency, and scientifically-based reading instruction (SBRI).

Topic	Syllabus/Reference to Courses
Assessment	BE5023 Assessment of ESL and Bilingual Students Module 4 Assessment Evidence-Based Learning and Assessment Students will research and report on the accommodations provided to English learners who are required to take annual, state-mandated, standardized exams. They will also describe the state process in place to request accommodations for English learners. Students will then practice the accommodation of linguistic simplification by applying it to a reading passage and/or test item (designed for mainstream students) to make it appropriate for use with English language learners.
Use of Technology to Impact P-12 Student Learning	ES5063 Linguistics for TESOL Module 2 Researching Students' Mother Tongues – Parts 1 and 2 Students apply terminology to which they were introduced in the previous module in the context of learning about languages that may be the mother tongues of students they now serve or will one day serve. The assessment has two parts. In Part 1, students develop a list of teaching points, classroom management considerations, and background resources with a bibliography of at least three online linguistic resources for each of three different languages. In Part 2, they select one of the languages and create a slide presentation to share their research
Cultural Competency	BE5043 Cross-Cultural Studies for Teaching ELLs Module 2 Identify Options and Research an Opportunity Area Students continue to build an action plan from a previous module for an opportunity area that will help them more effectively address the needs of culturally and linguistically diverse learners. In this module, they will gather feedback on their action plan from an individual who will be affected by the plan (a fellow educator, student, parent, community member, business owner, etc.). Then they will implement the first step of their plan, as well as enter target completion dates for each step in the plan, and identify any need for additional resources.
Scientifically Based Reading Instruction (SBRI)/SBRR	BE5033 Methods and Materials for Teaching ESL Module 4 Research to Practice: Part 4 As a part of a thematic, interdisciplinary lesson plan for English learners, students create an evidence-based (Natural Approach) reading/writing activity in English at a specific grade level and literacy acquisition stage and add review and assessment activities to their lesson plan.

STANDARD 3: CLINICAL AND FIELD BASED EXPERIENCES

- Supervised field experience (CFE) is defined as a university employed adjunct or faculty member assigned or contracted with to provide feedback to candidates based on observation of a candidate's performance in a school setting.

The Certificate in Teaching English Learners at American College of Education does not directly lead to initial teacher certification. Therefore, the program does not include student teaching or supervised clinical field experience. The program is, however, application-based, and in each course, students are required to put theory and research into practice in their current classroom settings. If students hold a valid teaching license, upon completion of the Certificate in Teaching English Learners, they can apply to the Indiana State Department of Education for an added certification to their existing license. Students entering the certificate program without a teaching license may use the completed certificate in their current or future work settings but will not earn a teaching license by way of this certificate. To earn a teaching license at American College of Education, students need to enroll in the Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT) or the Transition to Teaching (T2T) program.

3.1 EVIDENCE-LOCATION AND LEARNER CONTACT

- CFE provides minimum requirements of 10 weeks of fulltime student teaching with an experienced teacher.

Not applicable.

3.2 SUPERVISION

- CFE Supervisor is a university employed adjunct or faculty member knowledgeable in the candidate's anticipated educational role and capable of providing multiple forms of feedback.
- Supervision provides systematic formative candidate feedback based on actual observation of candidate's performance.
- Cooperating teacher is rated effective or highly effective. Innovative and collaborative student teaching models are used.

Not applicable.

3.3 CANDIDATE IMPACT ON STUDENT LEARNING

- CFE includes opportunities to assess student learning outcomes in a variety of ways using formative and summative measures, develops candidate's ability to enhance learning by analyzing assessment results, and allows candidate to practice developing, delivering and analyzing results of commonly used assessments in the state and schools most appropriate for expected educational role.

Not applicable.

3.4 DIVERSITY AND GRADE LEVEL COVERAGE

- Proposal clearly describes tracking system to ensure diversity in field placements as well as appropriate grade level coverage.
- CFE provides opportunities for candidates to participate with students of diversity in a variety of ways, including that of the candidate's expected educational role, as well as opportunities to work with a variety of parents, administrators, and school staff.

Not applicable.

Standard 4: Evaluation

Program Evaluation

1. UAS clearly denotes how the program and program participants will be assessed. Specific attention should be paid to addressing how the new program assessment fits within the current UAS and how data will be disaggregated for program assessment and improvement.
2. There are provisions for continuing evaluation of the program based on performance criteria to be met by those graduates completing the program.

Candidate Evaluation

1. The program has systematic procedures for monitoring candidate admission, progress, and completion of the program.
2. The proposal includes a description of assessment procedures and timelines that reference the approved Unit Assessment System and specifies:
   - Products and performances to be assessed
   - Standards of performance required to advance in the program.

Program Evaluation

ACE's UAS consistently provides a systematic approach to the collecting, analyzing, and reporting of data that are evident across all certificates and programs within the College. This systematic approach relies on the use of consistent and multiple measures across all College programs and courses. Given that ACE builds degree programs across a number of content or discipline areas within the broad area of education, the College uses relevant standards and changes in those standards.

ACE aligned the Certificate in Teaching English Learners to the following standards:
- National/Professional Association Standards
  - National Board of Professional Teaching Standards English as a New Language Standards
  - International Society for Technology in Education
- State Education Standards
  - Indiana Content Standards for Educators – English Learners (EL)
  - Indiana Content Standards for Educators
  - Indiana Developmental Standards for Educators – Elementary, Middle School, Secondary
- American College of Education Standards
  - American College of Education Academic Outcomes

[See Appendix A]

The College's Academic Outcomes, which are aligned to the Degree Qualifications Profile by the Lumina Foundation [See Appendix B and C], underlie all assessment measures, discussion forums, course exams, assignments, capstone experiences, and field experiences. The academic outcomes align with the specific program outcomes and course objectives. In this way, the College can look at the same variables across programs and across constituencies to see if these outcomes are achieved and are reported as being achieved. The College's academic outcomes are aligned to College-wide rubrics deployed in all programs.

In all master's certificate and graduate programs, the following rubrics are used to ensure consistency in unit assessment: Discussion Board Rubric, Reflection Rubric, and Assignment Rubric. In each program's Capstone Course, students are again assessed with common program-level rubrics. [See Appendix D]

The UAS has three components: quantitative assessments (final exams in applicable courses), learner-centered assessments (student self-evaluations and student reflections), and performance-based assessments (application-based assignments).

On a yearly basis, the College gathers all components of the assessment system to determine the performance of each program and produces a yearly report of assessment data. These data are used to determine any needed revisions for continuous improvement. In addition, each program has full comprehensive program review every 3 to 5 years, which includes both internal program faculty and external reviewers.

In addition, mentors and supervisors of ACE graduates are surveyed every two years regarding graduates' on-the-job performance in six areas: content knowledge, assessment, leadership, professional development, multicultural perspective, and technology skills. Mentors and supervisors are asked to rate the graduates on overall performance satisfaction and whether or not the graduate would be rehired.

The following table details the assessment plan for this certificate program. These data are gathered annually as part of the yearly report on assessment data.

PROGRAM ASSESSMENT PLAN

Faculty assess students on numerous direct and indirect measures categorized as Performance Assessments (e.g., assignments/evidence-based assessments), Learner-Centered Assessments (e.g., Student Pre- and Post-Course Self-Evaluations, Student Self-Reflections), and Quantitative Assessments (e.g., final exams). Scores on these measures are supported by rubrics that provide more detailed information regarding student achievement. Targets are set for each assessment method with the current initial standard of 80% of students earning an 80% or better on each assessment.

PERFORMANCE ASSESSMENT: BE5013 Foundations of ESL and Bilingual Education, Module 2 Assignment Students design a one-hour professional development workshop for their colleagues on a current events topic related to immigration or ESL/bilingual education and its impact on linguistically and culturally diverse students. The session must include an ice-breaker, a teacher-engaged activity, and a reflection activity for the participants, as well as a means for their colleagues to evaluate the session. Students may present to a small group of teachers or the entire faculty. At the conclusion of the workshop, students analyze their evaluations and reflection on the effectiveness of their presentation. This assignment is then revised by the student and graded as part of Capstone.	Leadership Rubric	Course instructor evaluates updated student assignment submission, as resubmitted during capstone TEL5081. The re-evaluation is graded using a new rubric which is specific to mastery of the certificate outcome. Data from the rubric and assignment are stored in the LMS. 80% of students are expected to earn a score of 80% or better on this assignment.
	LEARNER-CENTERED ASSESSMENT: BE5043 Cross-Cultural Studies for Teaching ELLs, Module 5 Reflection Assignment	Reflection Rubric	Course instructors evaluate student reflection submissions using a standardized reflection rubric. Data from the rubric and the student submissions are stored in the LMS. 80% of students are expected to earn a score of 80% or better on this assignment.
	QUANTITATIVE ASSESSMENT: BE5013 Foundations of ESL and Bilingual Education, Objective Scenario-based Final Exam	System generated quantitative score	The LMS grades the final exam. Exam scores are gathered through LMS and stored in data warehouse. 80% of students are expected to earn a score of 80% or better on the final exam.

Ethics and diversity are addressed in various courses and are part of the College's core values. Assessments are regularly examined for bias by the VP of Curriculum Development and Assessment. Every assessment item is reviewed and evaluated for cultural bias in addition to level of difficulty. Rubrics are aligned across programs and assignments and faculty are trained on the expected number of points to deduct for common issues, so grading is consistent and reliable.

In February 2014, the chair of the Department of Curriculum and Instruction conducted a study to explore the overall effectiveness of the course rubrics utilized to evaluate student submissions. The study was conducted to determine if the rubrics serve as a consistent and accurate measure of ACE's mission to providing high-quality education to students. By examining the consistency of the rubric usage between courses and across terms, the program was able to inspect the reliability of faculty use of the rubric. Although the content of the courses differs, this rubric allowed students to demonstrate mastery across the areas of communication, specialized knowledge, evidence-based theory, student-focused observation, assessment, action research, and relevance and leadership. The unified rubric promoted consistency across departments in grading and graduate expectations.

The findings of this study indicated, as a whole, the rubrics had a strong level of internal consistency. When data between years 2012 and 2014 were compared, the College overall showed an 8.53% increase in internal consistency. The biggest increase was found in scores for Educational Leadership which increased from $\alpha =.442$ in 2012 to $\alpha = .780$ in 2013. The other programs also fluctuated in scores, demonstrating slight decreases in Curriculum and Instruction and Educational Technology. The score for the common core courses demonstrated a slight increase.

With the internal consistency strong, department chairs, program coordinators, and faculty shifted their focus on clarification of terminology, seeking to make the rubrics more meaningful for student feedback while also aligning these to the academic outcomes. After a review of the narrative, it was determined to use more intentional descriptors to help students understand expectations and if points were lost, a clear way to communicate expectations, particularly in reference to mechanics and the use of APA style and format. The rubrics built upon the strengths of the previous version by adjusting the terminology, descriptors, and points to enhance the functionality of the rubrics without distracting from the infrastructure.

 In 2015 a second study was conducted to examine the effectiveness and consistency of the rubrics. The study found the current rubric was not providing an accurate assessment of the intended goals of the courses. As a result, new rubrics were designed based on the findings of the study and feedback provided by faculty within the college. All faculty were contacted to contribute to the rubric re-design and were involved in the development of the new tool. The final product resulted in the creation of three different rubrics designed to assess specific portions of the course which included the discussion board, the assignments, and the final reflection. After the rubrics were finalized, faculty were provided with specific training for the new rubrics. The goal of this training was to enhance consistency in the utilization of the rubric by faculty across the college.

The program review process is a collaborative effort, including leadership and faculty. A comprehensive review targets multiple programs in a systematic schedule to ensure regular evaluations of program outcomes, current standards, course content, and delivery approaches, using numerous performance indicators including but not limited to student learning outcomes data, survey results, and completion rates. In addition, the program mission, description, outcomes, and course objectives are analyzed to determine continued effectiveness. For example, the Educational Leadership program, designed around ISLLC standards, required updating when these changed to the Professional Standards for Educational Leaders (PSEL) which also provided an opportunity to review internship mentor surveys and the employer survey results.

The revisions in the internship process also indicated how the College uses data to make decisions for continuous improvement. The development of the College's internship process has been evolutionary precipitated by data from students, faculty, practitioners in various states, and school districts. After several live chats held with Educational Leadership students in the fall of 2009, the college provided students with more dedicated resources to answer questions regarding internship activities. Using student end-of-course comments along with other survey data, additional changes to the internship were made in 2015 based upon the feedback received. In response to the findings, the internship was modified. Prior to these changes, 357 students out of 585 finished the internship on time, a 60% completion rate. In 11 months, 307 students out of 337 finished on time, a 93% completion rate for an improvement of 33%. By tracking the completion rates, the data give evidence to the effectiveness of the changes.

CANDIDATE EVALUATION

Monitoring admission, progress, and completion
In order to graduate from American College of Education, each student must have a minimum 3.0 cumulative grade point average in coursework taken in his/her master's or licensure program at ACE. A course in which a grade below a "C" is earned will not be counted toward graduation requirements and must be retaken. When the course is retaken, each course and grade will appear on the transcript, but only the highest grade will be reflected in the student's cumulative grade point average.

Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP): Students are required to maintain satisfactory progress toward degree completion. This policy defines standards for satisfactory academic progress and related procedures. A student must maintain academic standards set by the College in order to graduate.

Academic Achievement Standards: Provisional Admission

If the applicant's overall GPA (grade-point average) does not meet the minimum requirements for full admission outlined in the admissions policy, the applicant will be allowed to enroll as a provisionally admitted student.

- Provisional students will be placed on Academic Probation status from their first term of entry into the College and will remain on Academic Probation through the duration of their first two courses regardless of the grade earned in the first course.
- Students cannot earn a grade below a "B" in either of the first two courses.
- Students must have earned a cumulative GPA of 3.0 by the end of their second course in order to be removed from Academic Probation status and be in good standing with the college.
- Students who earn below a B in either of their first two courses or do not earn a cumulative GPA of 3.0 by the end of their second course will be dismissed from the College for poor scholarship after consultation with the Dean or Designee.
- Students who believe their GPAs do not reflect their academic ability may appeal the dismissal decision to the Academic Appeals Committee within 4 weeks of the date on the dismissal letter.

Academic Achievement Standards: Academic Warning

Academic Warning is assigned when a student's cumulative grade point average falls below a 3.0. A student who is withdrawn or dismissed from ACE while on Academic Warning will return under this same status if he or she is granted reentry or readmission.

- Academic Warning is assigned for two terms to provide the student with the opportunity to raise the cumulative grade point average to at least 3.0.
- A student placed on Academic Warning must earn only A's and B's while on Warning, or he or she will be dismissed from the college for poor scholarship.
- Previous courses in which a failing grade or a D was earned must be retaken the immediate next term it is offered after consultation with the Registrar. The Registrar will re-configure the student's course map accordingly. Due to course rotation, a retake of a course may impede consistent scheduling—causing a break in a student's enrollment. If this occurs, the student would be placed in "Active Waiting for Class" until a course is available to take.
- A student on Academic Warning is eligible for academic advising services through Student Services.
- If the cumulative 3.0 grade point average is achieved within two courses, the student is returned to 'good standing' status at the end of the term.
- If the cumulative 3.0 grade point average is not achieved by the end of the second course while on Academic Warning, the student will be placed on Academic Probation in the next term.

Academic Achievement Standards: Academic Probation

Academic Probation is assigned when a student on Academic Warning status is not successful in raising his or her cumulative GPA to a 3.0 within two terms. A Provisionally Admitted student (due to admission GPA below program requirements) will enter the college on Academic Probation. A student who is withdrawn or dismissed from ACE while on Academic Probation will return under this same status if he or she is granted reentry or readmission.

- A student placed on Academic Probation must earn only A's and B's while on Probation, he or she will be dismissed from the college for poor scholarship.
- Previous courses in which a failing grade or a D was earned must be retaken the immediate next term it is offered after consultation with the Registrar. The Registrar will re-configure the student's course map accordingly. Due to course rotation, a retake of a course may impede consistent scheduling—causing a break in a student's enrollment. If this occurs, a student would be placed in "Active Waiting for Class" until a course is available to take.

- A student on Academic Probation status is eligible for academic advising services through Student Services.
- If the cumulative 3.0 grade point average is achieved while on Probation, the student is returned to 'good standing' status at the end of the term.
- So long as the student maintains B's or better while on Academic Probation, he or she will be permitted to continue to attempt satisfactory academic progress toward degree completion. If, at the end of degree required coursework the student fails to achieve a cumulative 3.0 GPA, he or she will be required to retake courses in which a grade less than a B was earned to raise his or her GPA to the minimum requirements.
- Any grade earned below a B while on probation will result in dismissal from the college.

Assessment Procedures

At a candidate level, students will use the key assessments (identified in the Program Assessment Plan) in addition to self-selected artifacts to clearly demonstrate mastery of certificate outcomes as part of their final capstone course. As referenced above, SAP is assessed at the end of each course, and students who do not make satisfactory academic progress will work on a remediation plan with the Office of Academic Excellence.

The following chart identifies those assessments used to address candidate knowledge, pedagogical knowledge, student impact/P-12 student outcomes, SBRR reading, use of technology for effective teaching, and cultural competency.

Topic	Syllabus/Reference to Courses
Candidate knowledge (min of 2 assessments)	BE5043 Cross-Cultural Studies for Teaching ELLS, Module 4 has students develop an action plan to engage students, parents, community members, and business owners to address needs of culturally and linguistically diverse learners. BE5013 Foundations of ESL and Bilingual Education, Module 2 has students design a one-hour professional development workshop for a group of teachers in a school on a current events topic related to immigration or ESL/bilingual education and its impact on linguistically and culturally diverse students in the educational system.
Pedagogical knowledge	BE5033 *Methods and Materials for Teaching English as a Second Language investigates the stages of language acquisition and ways to develop appropriate levels of vocabulary while providing strategies for engaging students.
Student impact/P-12 student outcomes	BE5023 *Assessment of ESL and Bilingual Students explores a range of assessment options for the purpose of providing accommodations, interventions, and determining best approaches for individual students. BE5013 Foundations of ESL and Bilingual Education, Module 2 has students design a one-hour professional development workshop for a group of teachers in a school on a current events topic related to immigration or ESL/bilingual education and its impact on linguistically and culturally diverse students in the educational system.

Topic	Syllabus/Reference to Courses
Scientifically Based Reading Instruction (SBRI)/SBRR	The critical nature of reading requires embedded focus across multiple courses: BE5013, BE5023, BE5033, BE5043, and ES5063. ES5063 Linguistics for TESOL provides students with an opportunity to investigate how a native language impacts language acquisition as evidenced in learning to read.
Use of technology for effective teaching	Digital Connections are embedded throughout courses. Students target ways to support their students in using technology in several courses. BE5033 Methods and Materials for Teaching ESL has students organize evidence-based strategies/activities into a sequential, day-by-day lesson plan appropriate for English learners. As a part of the lesson plan, you will they include a strategy/activity for each of the following: Sheltered instruction, review, and assessment. They use the free online tool http://quizlet.com/ to transform one of their ideas into an online activity. They include a link to the Quizlet.com activity where appropriate.
Cultural competency	BE5043 Cross-Cultural Studies for Teaching ELLs has students apply data from a culture snapshot of their design to select an opportunity area, conduct research to locate best practices related to that area of need, and design an action plan to address the opportunity area.
Assessment, Use of Technology to Impact P-12 Student Learning, Cultural Competency, and SBRR/SBRI	TEL5081 Certificate Capstone Experience for Teaching English Learners also encompasses all of the above topics, concepts, and courses in which program candidates are instructed and assessed in the areas of assessment, use of technology to impact P-12 student learning, cultural competency, and scientifically based reading instruction.

4.2 EVALUATION OF STUDENT TEACHING

- Student teacher evaluation tools or rubrics are well designed, reliable, valid assessment instruments.
- When rubrics are used descriptions of indicators are given at all levels.

Not applicable.

STANDARD 5: GOVERNANCE

5.1 GOVERNANCE

- Brief descriptions of program leadership roles and responsibilities are provided.
- Leadership for program ensures effective coordination of systems needed.
- Governance process manages curriculum, instruction and resources needed to support high quality program.

College Governance

- Board of Trustees: Overall oversight of the college is the responsibility of the Board of Trustees. The Board meets quarterly and is in frequent communication with the ACE executive team.
- Executive Cabinet and President's Cabinet: The Cabinets each meet twice a month to discuss items of college-wide importance and to engage in decision making related to major initiatives. Reports from each department are a staple at Cabinet meetings to facilitate collaborative decision making.
- Academic Council: Independent of the President's Cabinet, the Academic Council meets periodically as needed. It is composed of the provost, academic dean, associate deans, department chairs/program coordinators/curriculum directors, senior vice presidents, and two faculty representatives. Academic Council decisions include academic policies and procedures. It is chaired by the academic dean.
- Curriculum and Assessment Committee: The Curriculum and Assessment Committee meets every term, or more often if needed. It is chaired by the provost. The committee reviews and makes decisions about course structure, design, and content, as well as program and course assessments. It is composed of the provost, academic dean, associate/assistant deans, department chairs/program coordinators, academic curriculum directors, vice president of curriculum development and assessment, director of assessment, and faculty representatives. The Academic Council and the Curriculum and Assessment Committee work with the director of Institutional Research and Effectiveness to review and respond to course and program surveys, as well as institutional effectiveness measures.

Program Governance

All new programs are developed by a collaborative team that typically includes the provost, deans, VP of curriculum development and assessment, and faculty subject matter experts. Any changes to developed programs are routed through the Curriculum and Assessment Committee for approval.

In the case of Teaching English Learners, this certificate program is housed in the Department of Teaching and Learning, which is chaired by the leader of the Teaching and Learning Department and supported by the academic curriculum director for Teaching and Learning. The Teaching English Learner certificate program has a program coordinator who assumes responsibility for all student issues and reports to the chair of the department.

The ACE Library includes numerous databases covering topics such as English learning, language acquisition, cultural competencies, teaching practices, and instructional technologies to support students and faculty. Relevant journals include Literacy Teaching and Learning, English Education, and English Language Teaching.

In addition to training modules provided by the learning management system, Canvas, the College is dedicated to improving the use of technology, bringing appropriate learning experiences to online delivery. This process is regularly reviewed as a response to evolving technology, including the use of digital devices. The College utilizes leading technology to provide effective instruction, communication, and student support aligned to student success. This is evidenced by the creation of the Student Commons, Doctoral Commons, and Faculty Commons through Canvas. In the spring of 2017, the College will launch a DigiTools Center which will provide an array of apps and how to use them, supporting students and faculty educational endeavors.

STANDARD 6: SCHEDULE

6.1 PROJECTED IMPLEMENTATION

- Plan for communication, implementation, graduation, and anticipated census are included in the proposal.

The current M.Ed. in Teaching English Learners was approved for student deployment by the Indiana Board of Proprietary Education in September 2014. The notification for the certificate program, created from the approved master's degree, was sent to the Indiana Board of Proprietary Education in August of 2016. At this time, American College of Education does not offer the program for licensure addition, only for a master's degree without licensure or a certificate program without licensure. This application is seeking Department of Education approval to also offer the certificate program for licensure addition.

Communication
The College would immediately upon approval post the new offering on its website as an opportunity for Indiana residents. It would amend the Graduate Catalog to include the Indiana approval information required for consumer awareness and arrange for email communications with Indiana teachers and other education professionals. It would consider local advertising possibilities and begin working with individual school districts and regional centers to raise awareness of the program.

Implementation
An implementation date for the program will be dependent upon if and when approval to offer the licensure addition is granted. Following such approval, the College would initiate various marketing strategies to inform Indiana residents of these new program opportunities. A reasonable time for initial advertising would be two to three months before students would be scheduled to start.

Graduation
The average time to completion for students enrolled in this certificate program with the College would be 9 months. If approval for licensure is granted, the licensure information will be added to the website and Graduate Catalog.

Census
The director of Institutional Research and Effectiveness is responsible for census figures, as she is for other DOE-approved programs.
