I. Introduction: A Guide to the Guide

This is the seventh edition of the Indiana PAC Guide – and it is now available through the Internet's World Wide Web. The purpose of this publication is to supplement campaign finance disclosure reports. Those reports convey information on the financial activity of political committees, but what is often lacking is information on who is involved in a political committee. For example, a disclosure statement might show to whom Citizens for Better Roads made political contributions. But who is behind this political committee? Are the contributors to this committee neighbors who are angry about chuckholes? Are they freight carriers who use our highways or are they contractors who seek to build those roads? These are among the questions that the Guide is intended to answer.

There are three sections following this introduction. Section II is an alphabetical listing of the 406 PACs registered in Indiana in 2003. Most are still "active", meaning that they remain registered with an obligation to file reports. Data listed includes information on the sponsor or connected organization, names of officers, and category, which is based on the primary interest of the connected organization or contributors. If a PAC closed during 2001 or 2002, or the PAC changed its name during one of those years, this is indicated in the PAC's listing. PACs which closed before September 1, 2001 are not included in this edition of the guide.

Section III is a listing of Indiana PACs by classification – including the entire classification system we use for PACs. This system is designed to allow either a broad or narrow focus. For example, if one wishes to see what health related PACs exist, then viewing all of the Health and Human Resources Category provides such a list. If one wishes to know which PACs are connected with health care institutions, then one would look at the sub-category for health care institutions.

Our system of categorization is based on one developed by the Center for Responsive Politics in Washington, D.C. The Indiana adaptation of this system uses sixteen broad categories plus more specific sub-categories.

Section IV of this publication is a list of acronyms, along with the respective committee names. This Section, in concert with Section II, should help users discern, for example, that BARPAC is connected with attorneys and not tavern owners.

Efforts have been made to assure that this information is accurate. Mistakes may have occurred, however. If we have improperly characterized a PAC or a connected organization, we apologize and will make appropriate corrections in future editions.

Your advice as a user of this guide would be appreciated. We invite your comments and suggestions on how future editions can be improved.

II. Political Action Committees

These committees registered with the Indiana Election Division prior to or during 2003. All remain "active" unless otherwise indicated. The number in parentheses next to the committee name is the Election Division's file number. This number is assigned to each political action committee according to the chronological order in which the committee filed its statement of organization with the Election Division. A higher file number therefore indicates a more recently established PAC. For financial data for these and other committees, refer to the campaign finance files available at the Election Division or visit our website at <http://www.indianacampaignfinance.com/> for detailed information.
