BMV Announces Indianapolis Madison Ave. Branch Closure

INDIANAPOLIS—Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles (BMV) Commissioner Joe B. Hoage announced today he approved the proposal to close the Indianapolis Madison Ave. branch. The last day of operation for Madison Ave. will be Friday, August 30.

Staff from this location will be reassigned to nearby locations including Indy South located at 3919 Madison Ave. This location is on the same bus route as the Madison Ave. branch with multiple bus stops within a five-minute walk. In addition, FSSA's Division of Family Resources and the Department of Child Services have offices near the Indy South branch making it easier for constituents to access multiple state agencies.

"The decision to close Madison Ave. came after a thorough review of feedback received from area residents, as well as an assessment of branch activity over the past several years," said Commissioner Hoage. "With the Indy South branch just three miles away, residents have the option to conduct business at a location offering more customer service stations, testing stations, and BMV Connect kiosks."

Other locations within a nine-mile radius include Beech Grove, Midtown, and Indy West which collectively are operational Monday through Saturday. These branches also offer the BMV Connect kiosk service, providing customers the opportunity to complete more than a dozen transactions seven days a week.
