

REQUIREMENTS TO OBTAIN A FIRST-TIME INDIANA RADIOLOGY LICENSE / CERTIFICATE

The Indiana Department of Health (IDOH), Division of Radiology and Weights & Measures, issues radiology permits, licenses, and certificates for eight categories. Indiana does not have reciprocity with other states. A permit, license or certificate from another state is not accepted. Permits are required to complete clinical training in Indiana. They are issued to individuals when they enroll in an approved radiography education program. After individuals complete the approved education program, clinical training (with an active permit), and pass an approved exam, they may apply for a license/certificate.

To obtain a first-time Indiana Chiropractic Radiographer License, individuals must complete the following:

- Graduate from an IDOH-approved radiography education program for chiropractic radiography. Current programs are at this direct link: Chiropractic.
AND
- Complete clinical training (proficiency certification) after obtaining an active provisional permit for chiropractic radiography. The clinical training form (Application for Proficiency Certification for Limited Radiographer) must be completed by the program director of the approved radiography education program or by the licensed practitioner, who oversaw the clinical training while the provisional permit was active.
AND
- Pass ARRT limited scope exams for extremities and spine and core
OR
Pass ASCT exam
OR
Pass Continuing Education Providers chiropractic exam
AND
- Apply for Chiropractic Radiographer license online or by mail (details are below and at <https://www.in.gov/health/cshcr/medical-radiology-services/>)
 - To apply for a license online, go to mylicense.in.gov. Login or create your login credentials using the "Register for an Access Indiana Account" option. Select "Radiology", the license type, and application. It is required to upload the completed clinical training form, diploma / certificate of completion from an approved educational program, and proof of passing an approved exam. For questions about the documents, contact the program director of the education program.
 - To apply for a license by mail, print and complete the license application (Application for Radiology License) and mail it with a check or money order for $60 to the address on the form. The IDOH must receive copies of the completed clinical training form, diploma / certificate of completion from an approved educational program, and proof of passing an approved exam. All documents can be mailed together with the license application and payment. For questions about the documents, contact the program director of the education program.
