To obtain a first-time Indiana Radiation Therapist license, individuals must complete the following:

- Graduate from an approved ARRT radiation therapy program. Current programs are at this link: https://www.arrt.org/pages/about-the-profession/learn-about-the-profession/recognized-educational-programs. (Students are required to have an active student permit to complete clinical training in Indiana.)
  AND
- Pass the ARRT exam for radiation therapy
  AND
- Be currently certified and registered by the ARRT with credentials RT(T)
  AND
- Apply for Radiation Therapist license online at this link: mylicense.in.gov. Or print, complete, and mail license application (Application for Radiology License) and check/money order for $60 to address on form. More details are online at https://www.in.gov/health/cshcr/medical-radiology-services/.
- IDOH will check credentials on ARRT's verification website: https://www.arrt.org/pages/verify-credentials).