

INDIANA DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

Rusty Fowler
District Deputy Commissioner

Rusty Fowler serves as Deputy Commissioner of the INDOT's Vincennes District, a position he has held since August 2010.

Fowler has been in several different roles at INDOT since being hired as a summer worker in traffic and construction during college. Once he graduated from Purdue University with a Bachelor's of Science in Civil Engineering, he was hired as the District Maintenance /Operations Field Engineer – a position he held for 13 years. Fowler has also served as a District Bridge Inspection Engineer, District Production Director and District Construction Director in his time at INDOT.

Fowler was licensed as a professional engineer in Indiana in 1995. He attended the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials' National Transportation Leadership Institute in 2010 and currently serves as a member of the Program Management Group and Selection Review Committee.

A native of Washington, Ind., in Daviess County, and a 1984 graduate of Washington Catholic High School, Fowler and his wife Traci live in Washington. They have two children, Layne and Seth. He is the son of Marston R. Fowler, Jr., a career INDOT engineer and construction engineer, now retired.

In his spare time, Fowler enjoys playing guitar, kayaking, and eagle watching. He says he loves working with the people at INDOT and that "It is a great Agency, full of dedicated people producing results for our customers. I am especially excited about INDOT's renewed focus on values – Respect, Accountability, Teamwork, & Excellence – and our new focus on Talent Management."
