Indiana Young Readers Center

The Indiana Young Readers Center opened its doors in 2016 and is an official Bicentennial Legacy Project. The center houses a unique collection of books for children and young adults by Indiana authors and illustrators.

The center includes interactive exhibits for youth, featuring information about Indiana authors and fun facts about Indiana and the Indiana State Library. Young children can explore the Clifford Dog House and other play areas with their parents. The center is free and open to the public.
