The Lincoln Museum, Fort Wayne, Indiana, is pleased to announce the second in their landmark traveling exhibition series. The Lincoln Family Album is an exhibit created from the majority of the Lincoln family's photographic collection, owned by The Lincoln Museum. The exhibition will be available from January 2008 through January 2010. The themes of photo-collecting and genealogy presented in the exhibit allow it to be augmented with items from your venue's collection.

Whether taken at home in Springfield, in residence at the White House, in self-imposed exile in Europe, on vacation in Iowa, in retirement in Vermont or elsewhere around the world, the photographs in the exhibition, The Lincoln Family Album, provide us with snapshots of life among the Lincolns—the Abraham Lincolns, the Robert Todd Lincolns, the Charles Ishams, and the Warren Beckwiths. This rich collection of photographs assembled by Abraham and Mary and all the succeeding generations of Lincolns is the basis of a new exhibition that explores not only the Lincoln family history, but also acquaints the visitor with the Lincoln family genealogy.

These wonderful photographs of the four generations of Lincolns reveal interesting aspects of their private lives. Each generation sought the spotlight less, wanting to emerge from the shadow of Abraham Lincoln. This exhibition truly invites visitors to learn the “rest of their story.”

The Lincoln Museum looks forward to sharing the Life and Legacy of Abraham Lincoln with you and your visitors.
